| 12.00 –   | Outcomes from 2 Citizens’ Juries The three presenters explained the design and findings of 2 citizens’ juries investigating the extent to which patients should control access to patient records, and experiences of jurors | Malcolm Oswald, and 2 citizen jurors:
- Francesca Costello (jury 1)
- Paul Walton (jury 2) |
| 12:30     | The National Data Guardian’s Review Dame Fiona discussed her current review, and in particular the priority areas for the NDG relating to consent and control of patient records in health and social care. | Dame Fiona Caldicott, National Data Guardian |
| 12:30 –   | Questions for Malcolm Oswald, the citizen jurors, and Dame Fiona Caldicott The speakers answered a variety of questions from workshop participants. | Dawn Monaghan, Group Manager, ICO |
| 12:45     | Introduction to break-out session Sarah Clement explained to participants that they had been assigned to tables for group work in the afternoon and that each table would discuss either issue 1 or issue 2 (see below). Each table had a chair and a scribe. | Sarah Clement, Senior Policy Officer – Strategic Liaison, ICO |
| 13.15     | Lunch A sandwich lunch will be provided                                           |                                                                            |
| 13:50 –   | Break out session 3 tables discussed the following issue, voting on 1a and 1b, with the scribe summarising the points from 1c.
1. Organisations and value judgements | Small group work |
| 14:45     |                                                                                      |                                                                            |
a. Does your organisation make judgements that rely on values as well as evidence?
   b. How does your organisation learn about the public’s values and priorities?
   c. Can you use what you heard this morning from the citizens’ juries and the Wellcome Trust research to inform your decisions, and if so how?

4 tables discussed the following issue, voting on 2a and 2b, with the scribe summarising the points from 2c.

2. Risks of a public debate
   a. Is there a risk that when the public hears more about sharing health records, they will get more concerned about the risks of sharing?
   b. Is this a good reason not to engage in a public debate?
   c. What can be done to address this risk?

Outputs: Voting on 1a, 1b, 2a, 2b and notes from the discussion of the open questions 1c and 2c (as entered by the table scribes), are provided in March 10 group work results, available at: www.herc.ac.uk/citizens-jury
